THE LATEST INVENTION.

SKEW'S PATENT OXONITE TRUSSES for Hospital Furniture, designed to support the public as well as chamber supports and medical appliances for any form of repair or industrial purposes. These frames are the best possible. They are strong, light, and comfortable. The external surface being completely covered with a non-absorbent material (Oxonite), renders the absorbent qualities of the wood, and the acid extraction of the skin, cannot rust or get out of order, cause no putrefaction, irritation, will hold securely any steel prosthesis without causing pressure or pain. The frames are for hospital furniture, may be washed when necessary with impunity, and can therefore be worn any length of time in any climate without fear of damage. The frames are composed of leather, elastic, and other objectionable materials of a porous character. After several and extended trials the General Hospital, Liverpool, and the Divisions of the Illustrated Medical News, and Hospital Gazette have reported favorably on Skew's Patent Oxonite Trusses. Hospital, as well as the following members of the Medical Profession: Dr. J. G. Greathead, M. H. Croghan, A. Mackenzie, F. N. Black, and Van de Wall, of South Africa; Dr. A. G.
